

SAVE THE DATES and CALL FOR TOPICS & PRESENTERS

CONFERENCE SCOPE

The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) will host an All Hazards Preparedness Conference on June 18-19, 2019 in Marlborough to provide an opportunity for participants to learn and network with local, state, and federal practitioners from a variety of disciplines, including emergency management, fire services, law enforcement, public health, communications, volunteer organizations, and business and industry. The goals of this conference are to strengthen partnerships, share knowledge, and enhance preparedness, planning, mitigation, response and recovery capabilities across the Commonwealth.

OUR REQUEST

MEMA's Conference Planning Committee is seeking proposals and suggestions for topics, presenters and presentations for the 2019 All Hazards Preparedness Conference. We invite you to submit a proposed topic or speaker related to all hazards preparedness, planning, mitigation, response and/or recovery that could be included in the Conference. Topics and speakers should be suitable for our anticipated audience of state, local, federal and private sector emergency management and public safety partners and officials, and could be offered during either a plenary session or a breakout session.

To submit your proposal or suggestion, please email the Conference Planning Committee at trainingexercise@mass.gov. We ask that your proposals and or suggestions be submitted no later than Friday, January 11, 2019.

The Conference Planning Committee will review each submission and notify you whether your topic or presentation has been selected. Please note that we will not be able to accommodate all submissions given the limited number of available slots.
